18th October, 1947

Dear Mrs. Planck,

I wish to send you my warmest sympathy in your recent loss, both on behalf of myself and of all the staff of the Cavendish Laboratory. We have felt a warm affection for your husband, as well as our profound admiration of his scientific work. We were so glad that we had an opportunity of meeting him again not long ago, when he visited Cambridge. His name will always be an honoured one amongst scientists over the whole world, and it was with very great regret indeed that we heard of his death.

With my warmest regards.

Yours very sincerely,

W L Bragg
