NEW MUSEUMS,
Free School Lane,
CAMBRIDGE.

4 November, 1947

Dear Frau Planck,

Will you please accept the sincere sympathy of the Cambridge Philosophical Society in the death of your very distinguished husband. The Society has been very proud to count Professor Planck amongst its most famous foreign members for thirty-three years, and we are deeply conscious of the honour he did us in joining our Society. Many of us have the happiest recollections of meeting him during his visit to Cambridge in 1946, and we all mourn the passing of one of the greatest scientists of the age.

Believe me, dear Frau Planck,

Yours sincerely,

W. D. Hodge

President
